Mayor proposes more initiatives for school district

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento Mayor Christopher Cabaldon last week unleashed a new set of proposals to help improve education in the city. A week earlier, he announced a drive to create universal access to preschool for local four-year olds in order to better prepare them to learn in kindergarten.

New proposals from the mayor – who has no official leadership authority in the city's Washington Unified School District – include a proposal to "redesign" the functioning of local high schools, open more small and varied new campuses, open a teen center for older teens, pass a school facilities bond in 2004 to help pay for a new high school campus, place a 5,000-student community college campus on West Capitol Avenue and continue efforts to build an expanded local library.

Cabaldon also called for programs to subsidize home ownership in the city for local teachers, and develop an affordable housing preference program for teachers, school staff and city employees like police officers and firefighters.

Cabaldon also said he would be working on a plan to educate people interested in running for election to the school board – and hoped to have some kind of program in place for those interested in running for two school board seats on the ballot in November, 2004.

"Candidates for the school board are sometimes motivated by the experiences of themselves or their children with the schools, and that can give them an illusion of expertise," said the mayor yesterday, who contrasted this situation with what he saw in those who run for city council. "People come to the city council from other jobs, like the post office, and they don't assume they know how to run a fire department or sewage treatment plant."

City council members and school board members in West Sacramento both are doing a good job taking advantage of training programs after they are elected, he said. But school board members are often in for some rude surprises once elected.

"But there is nothing for the candidates before they're elected – you have to file your candidacy papers, campaign, get elected and then find out what the job is about," Cabaldon stated. "They often come with a particular agenda, but with a limited understanding of how to accomplish that agenda. This new program could include leadership development and information on nuts and bolts issues such as how our schools are funded, how the collective bargaining system (with employees) works and what are the open meeting laws."

Cabaldon said he is working on the details of the training program with Yolo County Supervisor Michael McGowan, who has recently been educating himself through programs at Harvard's school of government and elsehwere.

Would Cabaldon be interested in setting up a similar program to "encourage and recruit" people to run for city council – potentially becoming his own rivals?

"There are a couple of differences in the two situations," he answered. "The school board has faced some particular challenges in governing and leadership that have not been characteristic of the city. The city is a success story partly because of the coherent leadership of the city council since incorporation."

Senior center design

West Sacramento City Council members tonight will consider awarding a $229,000 architectural contract to the firm of Indigo/Hammond & Payle, for design of the city's new senior center near West Capitol Avenue and Merkley Avenue.

The project has a total budget of $1.5 million in city capital improvement funds (including a $500,000 grant from HUD) and up to $500,000 in additional money from newly-raised local sales taxes.

City staff reports receiving a response from ten different architects interested in the project, and interviewing five "excellent" ones before deciding to recommend Indigo/Hammond & Payle to the city council. Staff favored the firm for its methodology and for its plans to partner with another firm that has direct experience building senior centers.

The architect describes its mission in part as to "integrate art, architecture and ecology," "reuniting people with their environment and each other...(and) celebrating their spiritual and cultural aspirations." The firm specializes in trying to make buildings that work with the local climate to be cool in summer and warm in winter.

Of the five finalists for the project, the architectural firm "Group Four" was the high bidder, offering to design the project for $454,715. Low bidder was Forrar Williams, at $214,000.

Apartment project delayed

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Proponents of a zoning change that would allow an apartment complex to be built on "commercial" land near Sacramento Ave. and Douglas St. have opted to go back to the drawing board.

West Sacramento's planning commission had given its blessing to the change, but amid neighbors' concerns about traffic and other impacts, city council member Bill Kristoff called the matter to the council on "appeal" for review last week.

"They withdrew their application," said Kristoff. "The public hearing was closed, and they couldn't get a lot of feedback as to what they had to do to placate all of the council members. The neighbors concerns involved traffic, and (current owner) G.W. Williams Company had brought forth a plan that included some things for the community, such as a classroom in the complex that might have been a computer classroom, where people in the community might go and improve their computer skills."

But the new owners took that proposal out before the city planners gave their approval.

"That was one of the things that got my attention," said Kristoff. "I'm looking for amenities for the community."

Kristoff said he expects the application to come back to the city at a future date.

New housing proposed

Summit Commercial Properties, the developer that owns most of the Southport Industrial Park, is inviting West Sacramento residents to a pair of open house events this week. The company is seeking an a change to the city's land use plans that would allow it to build a mixed-use residential development and 20-acre "community-level sports complex" on land west of Southport Parkway.

The property is currently zoned for business and industrial uses.

One open house is scheduled for 4-7 p.m. on Thursday, and a second for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, with both events taking place at Southport Office Plaza, 2945 Ramco Dr.

The proposed project is called "The Villages at Southport."

Much of Summit's local holdings won't be affected by the proposal. The firm was a major campaigner against a November West Sacramento ballot initiative that would have made it difficult to build more industrial development.

On Tuesday, August 5, eleven West Sacramento neighborhoods celebrated the 25th Annual National Night Out Event. Those who attended the neighborhood parties experience good food and fun activities for all ages. The West Sacramento Police Department also opened its door to the public, and those who attended enjoyed snow cones and hot dogs, and were treated to demonstrations by Police K9, SWAT, and Motor Units. Also on display were the West Sacramento Fire Department, United States Marines and National Guard, West Sacramento Recycling Division, California Highway Patrol, Shots for Tots, America Medical Response, and the West Sacramento Police Boat Patrol and Ordnance Team.

Traffic court: local, again

Following a 3 1/2 year hiatus, West Sacramento and Yolo County have restored traffic court services to the city, with court sessions at 1:30 p.m. the first Thursday of each month in city council chambers. During the past few years, West Sacramentants have had to go to court in Woodland for traffic issues. The return of the court services is funded in part by a $10,000 grant from the Administrative Office of the Courts.

Gatorade plant: on hold

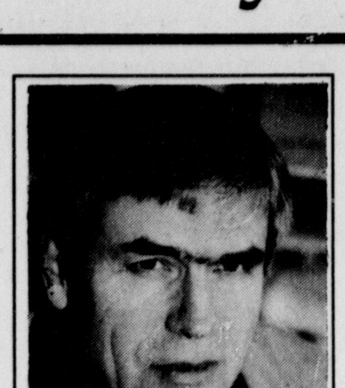
Officials at the Port of Sacramento last week said that plans to sell land to a previously-unnamed bottling company have been delayed, but not canceled.

And they confirmed widespread reports that the Fortune 100 bottling company in question was Gatorade, a holding of PepsiCo, Inc.

Port officials attributed the delay to an internal decision by the bottler, and said they expect the sale to proceed at a future date.

Doctors have a funny bone, too

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Note: The following "doctor stories" were recently emailed to me by a friend who swears each and every one of them is true.

A man came into the ER and yelled, "My wife's going to have her baby in the cab!"

I grabbed my stuff, rushed out to the cab, lifted the lady's dress, and began to take off her underwear. Suddenly I noticed that there were several cabs, and I was in the wrong one. (Dr. Mark MacDonald, San Antonio, Texas)

At the beginning of my shift I placed a stethoscope on an elderly and slightly deaf female patient's anterior chest wall.

"Big breaths," I instructed her.

"Well, they sure used to be," remorsefully replied the patient. (Dr. Richard Byrnes, Seattle, Washington)

One day I had to be the bearer of bad news when I told a wife that her husband had died of a massive myocardial infarct. Not more than five minutes later, I heard her reporting to the rest of the family that the man had died of a "massive internal fart." (Dr. Susan Steinberg, Manitoba, Canada)

I was performing a complete physical including the visual acuity test. I placed the patient twenty feet from the chart and said, "Cover your right eye with your hand."

He read the 20/20 line perfectly.

"Now your left," I said.

Again, a flawless read.

"Now both," I requested.

There was silence. He couldn't even read the large E on the top line. I turned and discovered that he had done exactly what I had asked; he was standing there with both his eyes covered. I was laughing too hard to finish the exam. (Dr. Matthew Theodropolous, Worcester, Massachusetts)

During a patient's two week follow-up appointment with his cardiologist, he informed me, his doctor, that he was having trouble with one of his medications.

"Which one?" I asked.

"The patch," he answered. "The nurse told me to put on a new one every six hours and now I'm running out of places to put it."

I had him quickly undress and discovered what I hoped I wouldn't see. Yes, the man had over fifty patches on his body. Now the instructions I give always include removal of the old patch before applying a new one. (Dr. Rebecca St. Clair, Norfolk, Virginia)

While acquainting myself with a new elderly patient, I asked her, "How long have you been bedridden?"

After a look of complete confusion she answered, "Will, not for about twenty years, when my husband was alive." (Dr. Steven Swanson, Corvallis, Oregon)

During my hospital rounds, I was caring for a woman from Kentucky and I asked her, "So, how's your breakfast this morning?"

"It's very good," she replied, "except for the Kentucky Jelly. It's not very sweet and I can't seem to get used to the taste."

I then asked to see the jelly and the woman produced a foil packet labeled "KY Jelly." (Dr. Leonard Kransdorf, Detroit, Michigan)

A new, young doctor doing his residency in OB was quite embarrassed performing female pelvic exams. To cover his embarrassment he had unconsciously formed a habit of whistling softly. A middle-aged lady upon whom he was performing this exam suddenly burst out laughing and further embarrassed him. He looked up from his work and sheepishly said, "I'm sorry. Was I tickling you?"

"No, doctor," she replied, "but the song you were whistling was "I wish I was an Oscar Meyer Wiener." (Dr. William Wertz, New York City, New York)

And finally, here are a half-dozen actual comments made by patients to a doctor while he was performing colonoscopies:

1. "Take it easy, Doc, you're boldly going where no man has gone before."
2. "Find Emelia Earhart yet?"
3. "Can you hear me now?"
4. "You know, in Arkansas, we're now legally married."
5. "Hey, now I know what being a Muppet feels like."
6. "Doc, could you please write me a note for my wife, saying that my head is not, in fact, up there?"

I am going to change venue a little this week because something came across my e-mail I thought too important not to pass on. The following is just good old advice you just don't think about, but important all the same.

*The next time you order checks have only your initials (instead of first and last name put on them). If someone takes your check book they will not know if you sign your checks with just your initial or your first name but your bank will know how you sign your checks. *When you are writing checks to pay on your credit card accounts. DO NOT put the complete account number on the "For" line. Instead just put the last four numbers. The credit card company knows the rest of the numbers. * Put your work number on the checks instead of home. Never SS numbers. * Place the contents of your wallet on a photocopy machine, do both sides of each license, credit card, etc. put in safe place. * We have been told we should cancel our credit card immediately if your credit cards are stolen. But the key is having the toll free numbers and your card numbers handy so you know whom to call. Keep those where you can find them easily. * File a police report immediately in the jurisdiction where it was stolen, this proves to credit providers you were diligent, and is a first step toward an investigation (if there is ever one). * But perhaps the most important is to call the three national credit-reporting organizations immediately to place a fraud alert on your name and Social Security number. The alert means any company that checks your credit knows your information was stolen and they have to contact you by phone to authorize new credit.

Equifax: 1-800-525-6285
Experian (formerly TRW): 1-888-397-3742
Trans Union: 1-800-680-7289
Social Security Administration Fraud Line: 1-800-269-0271

With identity theft on the rise, it is important to know how to protect yourself when something like this happens to you or someone you know. Equally important is to create a file so that you have a complete document trail of everything you have done to exonerate yourself. When applying for a home loan these documents are extremely important and can save time when processing your loan.

Major League Baseball

The San Francisco Giants (73-44) continue to win with there banged up team and over used pitching staff that is loaded with Triple A players. The G-men were so desperate last Sunday they called up 22 year old Kevin Correia from Phoenix to pitch against Philadelphia. Correia pitched a gem and the Giants won but if the Giants are going to make another run at the World Series they better get their pitching staff straighten out soon.

The Giants are on an East Coast swing that will put them in New York and Montreal before they head home for a crucial three game series starting next Tuesday against the Atlanta Braves. The Giants, who have 44 games left in the season, trail the Braves (76-41) by three games for the best record in the National League. The Giants are currently holding on to an 11 game lead over second place Arizona and 12 games over the Los Angeles.

The A's (68-50) are still 3 games behind Seattle in the West but their starting pitching staff is just beginning to fire up the ball. The A's added Rich Harden to their starting rotation and are now being called the "Big 4" with Hudson, Zito, and Mulder leading the way.

Ex-River Cat, David McCarty, was cut by the A's last week but ended up getting picked up by the Red Sox. The A's had to release either McCarty or Adam Piatt to make room for the newly acquired Jose Guillen.

The A's will close out their home stand this weekend against the Blue Jays before they travel to Boston next Tuesday to play a very important three game series against their wild card foes. The A's will finish up the season in September playing the first place Mariners six times out their last nine ball games. The loser of that six game series will be in a dog fight with the Red Sox for the wild card spot in the playoffs.

NFL Action

The 49ers and Raiders will play for bay area bragging rights on Thursday night (5 p.m.) at Candlestick Park. The Niners whipped up the Kansas City Chiefs 24-6 on Saturday night while the Raiders out scored the Rams 7-6 at the Oakland Coliseum.

The Raiders game was only attended by 37,000 plus fans but was televised locally. The Raiders fans better start buying tickets because their home opener on September 14th (1 p.m.) against the lowly Cincinnati Bengals is in danger of another black out in Northern California.

Head out to the Raider Image at Arden Fair Mall in Sacramento on Friday, August 15 from 3:00 - 7:00 p.m. to meet a few of the Raiders. You'll have a chance to take pictures and meet Raiders QB Marques Tuiasosopo and LB Napoleon Harris, along with Raiders legends and the Raiderettes. KHTK 1140's Grant Napear will broadcast live from the event.

The 49ers will hold out quarterback, Jeff Garcia, on Thursday night's game due to reoccurring back injury that may prompt the Niners to hold on to all four quarterbacks in

Vote "no" on recall

This October's vote whether or not to recall Gov. Gray Davis should be very educational. Davis could receive 49% of the no-recall votes and we could still have a new governor who receives 15% or less of the votes. All he or she needs is a plurality of the 50% plus one votes to recall Davis. That's how the law now reads: The incumbent can receive over three times the votes to retain him as the one who takes over immediately. This is outrageous!

Back in the early 1950s, then President Eisenhower appointed California Gov. Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. Lieutenant Gov. Goodwin Knight took over and there was no problem. But some time ago we passed a law creating the above fiasco. Where's the crime?

The crime began with former Gov. George Deukmejian when he hid a $14 billion deficit for his successor to deal with. Gov. Pete Wilson raided the employee-owned Public Employees' Retirement System to cover this shortage, but was later ordered by the state's Supreme Court to repay same, with interest. Later Wilson took permanently from local governments (already crippled by Prop. 13) and refused to sign a state budget unless legislators agreed to deregulate public utilities, opening the door for the energy mess that followed. And that's the cause of most of our state's $38 billion deficit.

It's ironic that Wilson, who opened the door for the Enron/Ken Lay/phony energy shortage, now co-chairs Arnold Schwarzeneggar's campaign to succeed Davis.

I believe the best vote on the recall election is: Vote "no" on the recall and for Lt. Gov. Cruz Bustamante if the "yes" votes prevail.

WILLIAM A. LOWELL
West Sacramento

Thank you!

CommuniCare Health Centers and Progress Ranch would like to thank Mervyn's in Woodland for holding the 11th annual Child Spree this past Saturday. Thirty children from both organizations were able to shop for back-to-school clothes and received a backpack filled with school supplies from Target.

In addition, the children, volunteers and parents were fed breakfast donated by Ray's Food Place in Davis, Davis Food Co-Op, Raley's in Woodland, Safeway in South Davis, Noah's Bagels in Davis Marketplace and Nugget Market in Woodland.

We would also like to thank all of the wonderful volunteer chaperones from Progress Ranch, CommuniCare Health Centers and members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Davis Second Ward and University Ward. Thank you to all of these supporters. This event wouldn't be possible without your help every year.

"Spy Kids 3-D: Game Over"

Running time: 110 minutes
MPAA rating: PG

If you combined the techno-babble and characters-trapped-in-a-videogame aspect of "TRON" with all the plot and character depth of a Skittles commercial, the result would be "Spy Kids 3-D: Game Over," the latest (and hopefully final) installment of Robert Rodriguez's family-friendly Latinocentric adventure series.

"Spy Kids 3-D" stars Daryl Sabara and Alexa Vega as Juni and Carmen Cortez, two junior spies for the OSS. When Carmen is captured and held prisoner inside a videogame created by The Toymaker (Sylvester Stallone), Juni is "injected" into the game to save her and prevent The Toymaker from enslaving all children inside his game.

Once inside, the movie is just one videogame sequence after another. Not much to look at — unless you enjoy watching other people play videogames, and the 3-D effects are nothing to write home about either.

The film is allegedly a comedy, but the character who's supposed to be the comic relief is The Toymaker. Sadly, because Sylvester Stallone is cast in this role, The Funny is nowhere to be seen. Sylvester Stallone is NEVER funny when he's attempting comedy. Stallone is only funny when he thinks he's being dramatic. He is the Italian-American William Shatner.

The movie's theme concerns the importance of Family, but the parents (Antonio Banderas, Carla Gugino) and assorted relatives of the two child heroes are conspicuously absent until the final 10 minutes of the film. The only relative to show up and stick around for the whole adventure is the grandfather (Ricardo Montalban). It was great seeing Montalban onscreen again, and he is the only bright light in this otherwise gray movie.

Alexa Vega and Daryl Sabara

After the film, I asked the 8-year-old what he thought of the movie. He said, "It was good, I guess. But there was no point to it."

WOODLAND JUSTICE ARRESTED FOR PLAYING CRAPS

Woodland, Sept. 15.—R. W. Harrison, Justice of the Peace here, Dan Barton, a storekeeper of Dunnigan, and "John Doe," said to be a Greek restaurant man, yesterday were served with warrants charging them with shooting craps in violation of the anti-gambling section of the Penal Code.

Warrants have also been issued and will be served today, according to City Recorder Schleur,on Joe Solomon, auto salesman; Howard Duncan, cattleman; Guy Eastburne, taxicab driver, and J. G. Carmack, dentist, charging them with being involved in the same alleged offense.

All seven defendants are charged by Nightwatchman Hardy Goodin with participating in a crap game, staged in the Hotel Burns at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The warrant on Justice of the Peace Harrison was served by City Marshal Perry Lawson... He was instructed to appear in Court this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Judge Harrison is the Justice who sentenced Mrs. A. Da Prato last Wednesday to a fine of $500 for selling wine to a detective, even though the woman does not speak or read the English language.

To the reporter of a daily paper of Sacramento he said he did not know that he was playing craps, but that he was simply shaking dice with the "boys."

Ignorance of the law, etc.

DA PRATO AND WIFE FOUND GUILTY AND FINED $750

Woodland, Sept. 13.—At the conclusion of a trial before Justice of the Peace R. W. Harrison this morning Clementia Da Prato and his wife Asunta were found guilty of having in their possession and distributing booze in Washington about ten days ago. It will be remembered that Hiram Smith, posing as a man of universal thirst, and Constable Isaac Clover, in the role of a cattle buyer and expert stockman, raided the place and found wine, gin and jackass. Much of it they bought and brought to Woodland as evidence.

Da Prato, like old brother Adam, hid behind the skirts of his wife and charged her with any illicit use or distribution of wine that may have been going on. When questioned why he went to the cellar after wine, he frankly stated that his wife sent him, and that the wine that was sold was so sold by her and not him. In fact it was she and not him.

Smith bought jackass for his morning's mornin', but Mrs. Da Prato said it was given to her and that she wanted to make Smith a present of it but that he forced money upon her. Smith assured District Attorney C. C. McDonald that it was one of his failings never to insist upon any person taking money from him, that like the rest of the world he belonged to the "Giveme Club."

Woodland, Sept. 14.—Clementino Da Prato, a Sacramento cook, was fined $250 and his wife $500 with a suspended jail sentence of six months additional by Justice R. W. Harrison in the Justice Court here to-day for violation of the local dry ordinance.

The Court held that the evidence indicated that the wife was more responsible for the bootlegging operations of the family at Washington than the husband, and hence gave her the heavier sentence.

Judge E. E. Gaddis, attorney for the defendants, gave notice of an immediate appeal to the Superior Court. Judge Gaddis said the local enforcement ordinance is clearly in conflict with the 18th amendment to the Federal Constitution and hence inoperative.

Yesterday the six Da Prato children were returned to their parents and their home after testimony had been given by several local responsible people crediting Mrs. Da Prato with being a good woman and a good mother.

Those testifying to the good character of Mrs. Da Prato were E. I. Hanson and wife, Mrs. Mary Hanson, next door neighbors. Supervisor W. J. Leinberger and E. Moss for several years a next door neighbor.

Mrs. Da Prato speaks very little English and probably never heard of the Volstead law. Her husband also speaks but little English and does not read newspapers printed in English.

FARM WANTED

TIM TONELLI HAS PITIFUL TALE HE TELLS IN HIS OWN WAY

Arrested for bootlegging on September 6th, Tim Tonelli, proprietor of the Washington Hotel, tells a pitiful tale that, to him, is unbearable in this land of liberty.

Some time ago Tim was arrested and fined $1,000 by a Woodland judge for having jackass in his premises.

When arrested again on September 6th no liquors of any kind were found in his place, but he is held to answer nevertheless under bonds of $1,000.

Yesterday he said: "If I have something I am arrest' and fine' and then I go ahead and don sell no more, Then they come again and I am arrest' too, when I haven't something. If I have something I am arrest', if I have not something I am arrest'. What the hell! I no can see what for. Pret' soon I go 'way perhaps I be arrest' too. What for I have no wine. I get thin and the Dist' Attorney he get fat. This one hell of country."

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15, NAMED FOR BENEFIT DANCE

Catholic residents of Washington, West Sacramento and Bryte are making arrangements for a dance and entertainment to be given on Saturday evening, October fifteenth, at the town hall in Washington for the benefit of the Catholic Church.

They have the co-operation of nearly all their neighbors who have kindly volunteered to help along the good cause.

At a meeting held September 6th there were many present and it was promised then that the entertainment would be as good as any that had ever been given for this purpose.

Intermixed between the dances there will be several numbers, such as special dances, songs, recitations, or comic entertainment.

Most prominent in getting up the affair are Antone Marty, Miss Mary Anater, Miss Mary Traversi, Miss Neville Korrel, Martin Cream, J. Taylor, E. Moss and W. Downs.

As a special feature of the entertainment several valuable door prizes have been offered for distribution, at which every one entering the hall will have a chance.

Miss Margaret Gorman of Washington, D. C., has been acclaimed the most beautiful girl in the United States by more than two thousand persons assembled on the pier, and as a consequence she won the five thousand dollar trophy.

History Corner:

James McDowell: shot to death in bar brawl

Note: From time to time the News-Ledger will use this space to take you back in time and tell you a little bit about some of West Sacramento's earliest setters.

The following article about James McDowell (the husband of Margaret McDowell, who would go on to found the town of Washington, later renamed Broderick, and who will be the subject of the next History Corner) was compiled by Verna Ellis of the West Sacramento Historical Society.

James McDowell was born in 1806 and raised and trained as a gunsmith in Kentucky. He spent a year farming in Missouri and then married 17-year old Margaret Piles in 1840. In 1845 he and his wife, along with their 3-year old daughter, Maggie, left for California, arriving at Sutter's Fort in the late summer of that year. In 1846 he purchased 600 acres of Yolo County land, a portion of the three square leagues granted to a man named John Swartz by the Mexican government, for the princely sum of $75. He fenced off one acre and built a house and corral and also started a garden.

McDowell was employed as chief gunsmith at Sutter's Fort where he was said to be their fastest worker and was paid more money than anyone else except James Marshall, who would later discover the gold that started the Gold Rush. He also worked on settler's guns and still found time to manufacture the first teaspoons in California. In 1847, against the wishes of his wife, he enlisted in Fremont's California Battalion as a lieutenant and gunsmith and after the campaign his family was delighted to see him marching safely back to them wearing a colorful serape.

McDowell died in 1849 from gunshot wounds suffered from a man named Coral during a brawl in a saloon in Sacramento. During the fight, he stabbed two men, both of whom survived. The argument was said to be about the two men stealing a considerable amount of money McDowell had buried in his back yard, and according to the McDowell family, McDowell was shot in the back.

McDowell was buried in New Helvetia Cemetery, known then as Sutter's Burial Grounds. His headstone is now at the Oakland Museum, inscribed: "In memory of James McDowell, who departed this life on the 26th of May, 1849, aged 42 years."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On Aug. 18, 1227, Genghis Khan, the Mongol leader, dies in camp during a campaign against the Chinese kingdom of Xi Xia. Obeying his order to keep his death secret, Genghis' heirs slaughtered anyone who set eyes on his funeral procession. His final resting place remains a mystery.
- On Aug. 21, 1911, in perhaps the most brazen art theft of all time, Vincenzo Peruggia walks into the Louvre, in France, heads straight for the infamous Mona Lisa, removes it from the wall, hides it beneath his clothes, and escapes. The Mona Lisa remained missing for more than two years, until Peruggia attempted to ransom the painting and was captured.
- On Aug. 22, 1933, the notorious Barker gang robs a Federal Reserve mail truck in Chicago and kills Officer Miles Cunningham. Netting only a bunch of worthless checks, the Barkers soon returned to a crime with which they had more success — kidnapping.
- On Aug. 24, 1938, Clark Gable reluctantly agrees to play Rhett Butler in David O. Selznick's "Gone With the Wind." Gable hesitated to take the role because he feared the production's high profile would set impossible expectations for any actor playing Rhett Butler.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Impatience with those who don't keep up with you can cause resistance, which, in turn, can lead to more delays. Best to be helpful and supportive if you want results.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A surprise announcement from a colleague could put you on the defensive. Gather your facts and respond. You'll soon find the situation shifting in your favor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Time spent away from a project pays off with a new awareness of options you hadn't considered before. Weigh them carefully before deciding which to choose.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Consider confronting that personal conflict while there's still time to work things out. A delay can cause more problems. A longtime colleague might offer to mediate.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some emerging matters could impede the Lion's progress in completing an important project. Best advice: Deal with them now, before they can create costly delays.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your aspect continues to favor an expanding vista. This could be a good time to make a career move, and taking an out-of-town job could be a good way to do it.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Disruptive family disputes need to be settled so that everyone can move on. Avoid assuming this burden alone, though. Ask for — no, demand — help with this problem.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Patience is called for as you await word on an important workplace situation. A personal circumstance, however, could benefit by your taking immediate action.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Don't lose confidence in yourself. Those doubters are likely to back off if you demand they show solid proof why they think your ideas won't work.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A temporary setback might cause the usually sure-footed Goat some unsettling moments. But keep going. The path ahead gets easier as you move forward.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) There's welcome news from the workplace. There could also be good news involving a relationship that has long held a special meaning for you.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might still need to cut some lingering ties to a situation that no longer has the appeal it once held. In the meantime, you can start to explore other opportunities.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your sense of what's right can inspire others if you remember not to push too hard to make your case. Moderation works best for you.

camp. Tim Rattay had a great day running the offense completing all eight of his passes for 90 yards but the two young fellows fighting for the No. 3 quarterback job also looked impressive. Brandon Doman completed 11 of 12 passes for 101 yards while Ken Dorsey impressed the coaches with his two touchdown passes.
